

James Frederick McGregor

April 9, 1936 - November 15, 2022

James Frederick McGregor, better known as Mac, Daddy Mac, or Papa, passed away Nov. 15, 2022, at age 86. Mac grew up in Mancos, Colo., and attended Fort Lewis College in Durango, Colo. He married Anne Bauer in 1957 and had four children.

Mac worked for Shell Oil Company, which allowed he and his family to live in several locations in the western United States. Moving was an invited adventure until he was to be transferred to Los Angeles. He chose not to take the transfer and took the offer to manage Baby Rocks Trading Post on the Navajo Reservation in Arizona which provided a unique opportunity and experience for the family.

This also allowed him to be closer to family and friends in Colorado. After five years, he accepted a position with Black Mesa Pipeline in Flagstaff, Ariz., as a cathodic protection technician until his retirement. In 2004, he and Anne relocated to Carson City, Nev., to be closer to family. He embraced the opportunity and spent hours exploring the Sierra and Pine Nut Mountains.

Mac loved the outdoors and was a master gardener, fisherman and prospector. He was a handyman who could fix anything and would repurpose everything.

Above all, Mac loved his family. He sacrificed and worked hard so that all his children could attend college. He taught them to work diligently and always help a neighbor in need. With the arrival of grandchildren, he enjoyed introducing them to the outdoors, teaching them to bait a hook, ride four-wheelers, and search for hidden gems.

Mac is survived by his wife Anne, son Michael McGregor, daughter Cheryl Slack (Sam), seven grandchildren and four great-grandchildren. He was preceded in death by his son Capt. James "Marty" McGregor and daughter Michelle Stanfill.

We are heartbroken that you are gone, but you did not go alone. A little bit of each of us went with you when God called you home.

A Funeral Mass will be held 10 a.m., Friday, Dec. 2, at St. Teresa of Avila Catholic Church in Carson City. Burial will be in Flagstaff, Ariz., in the spring.

“ Jim and Esther enjoyed Mac over the years starting with Jim and Mac all through their school years. Over the next years, it was always a joy to spend time with them. Our hearts are saddened but we do believe he is with our loving God and with those gone before. We send our deep sympathy.
